

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Hello Tritons!

Fall is officially here and we are into our winter diving hibernation period. Time to pack up the dive gear and dream about the dives to come. But, that doesn't mean we don't have some great events planned to get us through to next year's dive season. Check out our club calendar. We have a new event in October with a trip to the East Troy Electric Railway Museum and in early November a visit to the Holocaust Museum in Skokie. Plus, for those of you who are interested in helping our communities, Jim Hynan is once again running the Greater Chicago Food Depository event.

You also need to be planning on joining us for our annual Holiday Party. This year we will be returning to the Birch River Grill in Arlington Heights for an evening of merriment and good times with our fellow Tritons. The date for the party this year is Saturday, December 1, 2012 from 6-10 PM. The Birch River Grill is located at Algonquin Road and Arlington Heights Road next to the Doubletree Hotel. All of the details are in this month's Trib. I hope you will all be able to join us for the evening.

CLEANING OUT YOUR CLOSETS?

As you make the changeover from your summer to winter wardrobe and you find warm coats, jackets, boots, hats, gloves, scarves that you no long want/need. Why not give them new life? We will take the items to the Homeless Vets to ensure they have items to keep them warm all winter. Don't just chuck them, recycle and help to keep a vet warm.

Bring the items to any business meeting or call and we can make arrangements to pick them up. Thanks!

UNDERWATER PUMPKIN CARVING

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 6, 2012

HAIGH QUARRY, KANKAKEE

The day was a bit blustery which made it seem chillier than it really was (wind chill, yuck!). The water temp was a balmy 64 degrees and all diving reported it was quite pleasant underwater.

To warm everyone we started the grill early so folks could stand around the fire. Everyone around Haigh seemed to have the same idea, lots of grills going but not much cooking.

We had plenty of hot chili, not spicy but all sorts of hot sauces and peppers to enhance your bowl if you wanted. Chuck did grill hot dogs and burgers for the true carnivores among us. Lot of munchies and cookies rounded out the menu – some healthful (carrots, celery, apples, mandarins – some not so – mustard pretzels, dips, chips. We were set up next to DJ's SCUBA in Lyons and invited them to come on over and have join the party, which they did – thanks to Dan Howard and one of his diving contingent for adding brownies to the menu!!

First prize in the carving contest was won by the team of Bob and Claire Gadbois. They went home with a couple of new visors, free entry to Haigh, a Haigh Quarry tote bag and more. Prizes were awarded to all who carved – baseball hats, BBQ cookbooks and tote bags. For those attending and not diving we had totebags, jar openers, key chains with bottle openers and other assorted goodies.

Many thanks to Tina Haigh at Haigh Quarry, she always makes everyone feel welcome. Not only does she have a pile of pumpkins to choose from, she also donated one free entry, two air fills and totebags for the carvers.

Thanks to all who came on out, carvers and non-carvers.

SUNDAY OCTOBER 21
RIDE THE OLD RAIL CARS IN EAST TROY WI
A NEW FALL EVENT!

I thought a new and fun fall event might be in order. Let's visit the East Troy Electric Railroad and take their short (about 10 miles) trip through the fall foliage to Mukwonago WI for lunch and shopping, and then come on back to East Troy. Both these towns are vintage small town Wisconsin, and the business has resurrected some old electric rail cars for us tourists to have some fun.

Price (for the train alone) is $12.50, $10 for seniors 65+ (do we have any?), and $8 for kids under 11. East Troy is about 15 miles due north of the town of Lake Geneva, can easily get there in 2 hours for most of us. It is home to Alpine Valley. I will get more specifics to people the week before the event.

We will have a Noon train shove-off, and return from Mukwonago on the 3 PM or 4 PM (last one back). And perhaps have diner in East Troy. Nine signups so far, with room for more. Their website is noted below.

GREATER CHICAGO GOOD DEPOSITORY
SATURDAY MORNING, NOVEMBER 10

I have reserved 15 spots at Food Depository for the 9 AM shift on November 10th. Come help pack non-perishable food for later distribution to homeless shelters and other places that serve the needy. Come and join us at this fun and rewarding event, especially if you have not been down there before with us. It is on the near SW side of the City, just off Pulaski and south of the Stevenson Expressway.

More detail to come at future meetings, this one usually books up quickly so sign up when you can. Note that this was the only slot in November I could find that does not conflict with other Triton events.

* LAKE GENEVA DIVE
SUNDAY OCTOBER 7
$35, DINNER INCLUDED

The dive and post-dive activities were wonderful. Unfortunately, I think we set a record for number of cancellations. We had 11 paid divers, and 7 cancelled for various reasons. So the 4 of us who did dive had lots of elbow room on board the good ship "Divers Delight." We had 2 fun dives on the north shore in balmy 50-degree weather. Found anchors, fishing poles, and other things we cleaned off the lake bottom. We adjourned to the house after for lots of pasta and dessert, and were joined by most of the folks who cancelled on the dive. Had about 10 for dinner.

Let's do it again this year, I like closing out the local season this way.

CONCERT – REUNION JAZZ ORCHESTRA
Saturday, December 16
At Fitzgeralds Pub, 6615 Roosevelt Road Berwyn
$10 Cover Charge

Club member Ron Levin's REUNION JAZZ ORCHESTRA will perform live at Fitzgerald's on Sunday Dec 16th, after an initial performance by the Notre Dame High School Jazz Band. Not sure if you have heard Ron's orchestra before, they are truly good. And this is their big holiday event, this will be well worth the trip to Berwyn. There is a $10 cover at the door of Fitzgerald's, no need for payment prior to that day.

A few notes about Fitzgerald's: it is not a restaurant. There is a very good Italian restaurant next door (Capri Ristoranti) that we can meet at before the performance. There are no reservations at Fitzgerald's, it is a big place, but seating is first come, first served. So I suggest we get there no later than 5:30. Which would put a dinner meeting at no later than about 4 PM. We can work out those details later.

Please sign up with Ron at meetings (I cannot make the October or November meetings). Or you can let me know directly. This will be a fun holiday event.

ATOMIC COBALT COMPUTER RECALL*

If you have an Atomic Cobalt computer, stop using it immediately and see if yours is a unit affected by a recall. Essentially, there may be a weakness in the faceplate and it could blow off when you pressurize the tank. Here's the recall notice: <http://www.cpsc.gov/CPSCPUB/PREREL/prhtml12/12286.html> .

And here's the recall notice from the Atomic website with a list of serial numbers: http://www.atomicaquatics.com/cobalt_notice.html .

SAFETY RECALL
Atomic Aquatics Cobalt Computer

Improper assembly of the high pressure sensor inside the unit could leak, potentially causing the lens of the computer to blow off suddenly. This could result in personal injury from flying parts; render the computer inoperable and would also create a continuous but slow leak of breathing gas that could require a diver to surface prematurely.

This recall affects all units manufactured between May 31, 2010 and April 16, 2012. Serial Lots 2210-XXXX through 1612-XXXX.

Includes Lot Numbers (first 4 digits of serial number)

- 2210 2910 4010 4710 5010 1111 1711 2611 2811 3211 3311
- 3411 3511 3611 3711 3811 3911 4011 4111 4211 4511 4611
- 5211 0812 1112 1212 1312 1412 1612

IF YOU HAVE ONE OF THESE COMPUTERS, IMMEDIATELY STOP USING IT AND RETURN THE UNIT TO EITHER AN AUTHORIZED ATOMIC AQUATICS DEALER OR THE FACTORY, FOR INSPECTION.

FAREWELL TO RON TAYLOR

Ron Taylor, who with his wife Valerie filmed and worked for the conservation of sharks for nearly 50 years, died in Sydney, aged 78.

In 1974 Ron Taylor was building a thriving documentary business filming sharks when he got a call asking if he would like to work on a Steven Spielberg movie called Jaws. He agreed, and his contributions resulted in some of the most terrifying moments in American film, as a scientist played by Richard Dreyfuss, suspended in an iron cage, is attacked by a 26-foot Great White that bends the cage wide open.

The scene, though supposedly taking place in the waters of a fictional New England community, Amity Island, was actually filmed in Mr. Taylor's native Australia, using a small cage and a very short stuntman to make the 14-foot shark look bigger. (Large mechanical sharks were used in other scenes.) The sequence made Mr. Taylor, who worked with his wife, Valerie, a much sought-after producer of shark footage.

He died on Sunday at 78 in Sydney. The cause was leukemia, a family friend told The AP

Although Mr. Taylor worked on other movies, including Orca, a 1977 horror film, and Sky Pirates, a 1986 adventure film, he was proudest of the documentary work. One series for National Geographic called Blue Wilderness (1992) involved filming white pointer sharks off South Africa without the protection of a cage.

As he and his wife became dedicated conservationists, he expressed concern that "Jaws," a 1975 blockbuster about a murderous giant shark that terrorizes a beach community, had hurt the image of a creature he had come to respect. "It did a lot of damage for sharks," Mr. Taylor said on Australian television in 2005. "People went out with a vendetta to kill sharks because they believed that sharks were really like that."

Ron Josiah Taylor was born March 8, 1934, in Sydney. An avid swimmer and spear fisherman, his interest in film grew after outfitting his father's 8- millimeter home-movie camera for underwater use.

Mr. Taylor first attracted wide attention in 1963, when he sold a documentary to NBC called Shark Hunters. (He was one himself: In 1961 he reported that he and a partner killed 50 sharks over a weekend using spears with hypodermic needles filled with poisons.)

Mr. Taylor met his wife, a champion swimmer and spear fishing enthusiast, at the St. George Spear Fishing Club. She proposed, and they were married in 1963, beginning an enduring partnership that centered on their love of the ocean. She is his only immediate survivor.

Ms. Taylor was always an equal player. Once her husband custom-ordered a $2,000 chain-mail suit to wear in a documentary exploring how it felt to be bitten by a shark. When it arrived, he couldn't fit into it, so she took his place.

"It's a real thrill to sit down there and have a wild animal trying to chew your arm off," she said in the television interview.

In his later years, Mr. Taylor concentrated on marine conservation projects. In 2003 he was named a member of the Order of Australia for this work.

While the Taylors typically expressed little fear of sharks, Mr. Taylor did have a close call while filming the documentary Blue Water, White Death (1971).

"My 35-millimeter camera had run out of film, and I was sitting on top of the shark cage that was suspended about 30 feet underneath a dead sperm whale," he recounted in a 2001 interview with a Los Angeles film editors group.

While watching the sharks feed on the carcass, "I received a hard blow to the side of my head," he said. "I didn't see the nine-foot Oceanic White Tip Shark coming. The blow almost knocked me unconscious. I could feel my body going limp, and seawater was running into my mouth beside my mouthpiece. My vision was narrowing. Luckily, I regained control."
